GLEE CLUB BROADCAST SUNDAY

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE LIBRARY

VOL. XLVII | MIDDLEBURY, VT., NOVEMBER 9, 1950 | NUMBER 8

Male Singers To Broadcast NBC Concert

Middlebury College's 50 man Glee Club will be featured in a radio broadcast from Mead Memorial Chapel over the facilities of the Yankee Network of the National Broadcasting Company at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, November 12. Students and faculty are invited to attend the concert, but they are warned that no admittance will be allowed after 2:15 in order to insure the quiet necessary for a radio broadcast.

The half hour program, arranged with NBC by the Middelbury Publicity Department, is sponsored by the Monsanto Chemical Company, and will be presented as part of a series of college glee club concerts. The theme of the concert will be based on Middlebury's foreign language schools, and it will consist of a selection of songs contributed by the various language departments. These songs, to be sung in their native tongue, will include the German "Innsbruk," "Ich Muss Dich Lassen," the Spanish "Na Bahia Tem," and the American "Going Home Train." The concert will be opened by the traditional "Walls of Ivy," and closed with the singing of "The College on the Hill." Three thousand Middlebury alumni in the New England area received announcements of the broadcast from the Monsanto Co.

The Glee Club has this year sung at the Freshman Dance, the freshman men's Sports Night, and the Homecoming luncheon. Future plans include a joint concert with the Women's Glee Club of Colby Junior College, to be presented December 2 in New London, New Hampshire. Also, scheduled is a concert to be given next semester for the student body.

The current Middlebury Glee Club was first organized by Professor H. Ward Bedford, head of the college's music department, and for the past two years has been under the direction of Baird W. Whitlock. Daniel C. Nyman '53 is pianist for the group, and Jack Sacher '52 is its manager.

Middlebury Militia

While uniformed Norwich cadets executed "spit and polish" precision marching across the field at halftime, Middlebury's militia, drawn from the freshman class, prepares its own informal display of close-order drill in the true spirit of the Green Mountain Boys.

Local Community Chest Launches Drive Monday

The fund-raising drive of the Middlebury College Community Chest will begin on November 13 and continue until November 20, it was announced this week. The Community Chest plan was formally approved on Tuesday, October 31, when the Men's Assembly followed the lead of the Women's Assembly and passed the proposed resolution. The goal has been set at $2000.

Advantages of the new plan are that a single campaign, regularly scheduled each year and efficiently conducted, covers more people, creates more interest, and most important, makes collection easier for the individual contributor. Each contributor determines the amount he wishes to give to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, United Negro College Fund, Red Cross, March of Dimes, the World Students' Service Fund and to any undesignated charitable organization. The exact amount, not the percentage of each contribution should be indicated in the blank opposite the name of each fund on the contribution envelope. The Community Chest must abide by these decisions. The fund does not, however, cover any of the local charitable drives.

The co-chairmen have emphasized that the drive will cover everyone connected with the College: students, administration, faculty and employees. Dormitory agents will personally solicit contributions, while off-campus contributions will be collected by mail.

Frontiers Selects 6 New Members

Frontiers literary editors Henry C. Gross '51 and Philip R. Lane '51 have announced the appointment of six new members to the staff of the bi-annually published literary magazine. The new members are: Sally U. Liptrott '51, Richard D. Attwill '52, William T. Cathcart '52, George F. Wedge '52, Frances H. MacRae '52, and Jane E. Pope '54. Margaret A. Nasmith '52, was named to the staff last year.

Tryouts for the literary staff were required to submit critiques of five poems, three short prose descriptions, and two short stories. The new members were selected on the

Debate Team Contests National Subject

Five Middlebury debaters competed for honors in New York City last Monday, November 6, in a highly concentrated debate schedule against Columbia University, Cooper Union, N.Y.U., and Brooklyn College. Shoana J. Edgar '51, Cynthia A. Cannon '53, Nancy C. English '53, Mary L. Wells '53, and Jeanmarie McKenna '54 debated this year's national question for colleges: "Resolved: that the non-Communist nations should form a new international organization."

This was the second bout for Middlebury's women debaters this fall. Miss Edgar and Miss English met a team from Bates in a demonstration debate before members of the High School Debating League at Groveton, New Hampshire on October 27. The desirability of the welfare state, which is the national question for high schools, was the issue.

Men debaters faced St. Michael's twice last week. On Wednesday, November 1, George A. Gleason '52, Alan P. MacKinnon '53, William L. Smith '53, and William T. Walter '53, debated here at Middlebury, while on Friday, November 3, Hayden T. Mason, a graduate student, William R. Huey, Jr. '52, Mr. MacKinnon and Mr. Walter debated at St. Michael's.

The men, more active thus far than their women associates, were represented at Champlain College on October 12 by Fletcher V. Parker '51, William H. Howard '52, Mr. Mason and Mr. Huey. On October 23 and 24, Donald W. Sherburne '51, James C. Straney '51, Mr. Mason, Mr. Parker, and Mr. Howard participated in a series of debates in Boston, resulting in a victory over Harvard, a tie with Northeastern University, and losses to Boston University and M.I.T.

On November 10 and 11, forty to fifty colleges will participate in the U.V.M. tournament, to which Middlebury will send Mr. Hayden, Mr. Walter, Marjorie Dawson '54 and Anne Hepworth '54. On November 15 and 21, Mr. Mason and Miss Edgar will debate with McGill on the question of admitting Communist China to the U.N.

The touring British combined university team will debate here at Middlebury on December 5. This debate will be unique because against

I.F.C. Rushing Ends; 157 Freshmen Pledged By Nine Fraternities

The five week fraternity rushing period ended Monday, November 13 at 6:00 p.m. with the pledging of 157 freshmen, 11 upperclassmen and transfer students, and the granting of house privileges to 7 men.

During the last week in September, neutral men divided into nine groups began making the rounds of individual houses for their initial smokers. The freshmen and transfer students visited three houses a week for a three week period. This smoker system replaced the dinners program of last year.

On November 2, controlled rushing ended and a silence period followed. Final smoker bids were distributed on Sunday, November 5. Following the latter smokers on Sunday evening, another silence period was called. Pledge bids were received Monday morning in Gifford Library and were returned by dinnertime Monday. Those who failed to return bids during the allotted time must wait until next semester to be pledged.

Series Schedules American Pianist For November 16

Miss Margaret Bartels, noted American pianist, will present an unscheduled Concert-Lecture series program, on Thursday evening, November 16, at 8:15 in Mead Chapel. The concert will be the second presentation of the current Concert-Lecture series, and as usual, regular subscribers and students of Middlebury College will be admitted free of charge.

A one-time child prodigy, Miss Bartels has studied at Julliard School of Music in New York, and at the Philadelphia Conservatory. She made her first major public appearance with the Association Symphony Orchestra of Detroit when she was thirteen years old. Currently serving as professor of piano at Lebanon College in Pennsylvania, Miss Bartels is the winner of the Walter A. Naumberg Musical Foundation prize.

Miss Bartels will offer her Middlebury audience the same program that she will present at Town Hall on Wednesday, December 13. Among the selections are: the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 53, a first performance of Improvisation, by Henry Cowell, and Sonatina No. 2, by Vincent Persichetti, two Etudes and a Scherzo by Chopin, and three Debussy numbers. Miss Bartels will close the recital with the Toccata, by Prokofieff.

Changes At Snow Bowl Announced

Recently completed renovations at the Middlebury Snow Bowl have increased the facilities available for winter sports enthusiasts, it was announced this week by Joseph C. Jones, women's ski coach and manager of the Snow Bowl.

Considerable work was done on the small slope this summer with a bulldozer. The three slopes will be available for skiing as soon as a foot of snow falls. Two small instruction areas have been cleared at one side of the small slope.

Parking problems will be greatly alleviated by a new parking area in the Snow Bowl which will accommodate 150-200 cars.

The Mountain Club is building a new cabin on Worth Mountain. It will be used as a warming cabin for competitors and officials during Winter Carnival, and also as

Students To Elect Midd "Cinderella"

A Sophomore "Cinderella" will be elected by the entire student body to reign at the Cinderella Ball, to be sponsored by the Sophomore class on Wednesday night, November 22. Voting will take place in chapel Friday and Saturday morning, November 10-11.

Any Sophomore woman is eligible for the title. She is to be chosen on the basis of the voter's personal idea of what a Cinderella should be. The outcome of the election will be kept secret until the intermission of the dance,

Mr. MacLean's Noble Experiment Touted in Hot Tip

(Editor's note: The following article mysteriously appeared at the CAMPUS office late Monday night. A car door slammed and a vehicle sped off into the night. The license, Mass. 69702, has been identified as that of a notorious Melrose tout.)

Of late, the campus has been besieged with people grabbing other people by the coat lapels and asking them to purchase chances on "Maclean's car." This indeed is a noble experiment.

I have ridden often, upon Mr. MacLean's invitation, in his four-door Buick auto. It is an excellent reminder of the late twenties and early thirties ('32 to be exact). As I languished on the back seat of the vehicle, I could not help but imagine myself as Al Capone, being propelled through the bullet-strayed streets of Chicago. Al must have had a car just like this one. Racing along Chapel Row, my mind began to wander...

"Did he pay up?" I asked Mugs Loveys, a vicious character, who walked out of the liquor store up to the car, where he rested one of his size 13's on the running board.

"No, Chief, he didn't. I had to put my finger on him."

"Look Loveys, you're getting too trigger happy. You're shooting away all our profit. Wait, there go our rivals, the Forbes-Farrell gang. Step on it Maxie. They've got one of those slow Chevies..."

"Munroe. All out!", said Mr. MacLean.

"Uh, what?", I said. "Oh, Munroe Hall. Thanks for the lift. Sure a smooth running car you have. Of course I've got a ticket. Del Mullen hit me as I came out of the Snack Bar. You say I've got a better chance if I've got two tickets? Thanks for the tip, Mac. Keep the tip under my hat? You know me, Mac."

Plagiarism

Last January, evidence of a lack of student integrity in course work came to light during the investigation of plagiarism which followed action taken against five freshmen who had submitted copied term papers to their instructors. Upperclassmen estimated that a majority of the men at some time in their undergraduate courses turned in papers which were ghost written, borrowed from fraternity files or lifted from magazines and books.

The five freshmen suffered minimum penalty on the grounds that plagiarism was a commonly accepted practice; it was agreed that it was more important at the time to do something about the practice than to seek retribution in the case of the unlucky five. As a result, most of the fraternities burned their files, instructors impressed upon students in their classes the seriousness with which plagiarism was regarded, and the faculty reasserted the "the penalty for dishonesty in student work is suspension or discharge from College."

Nevertheless, the ruling did not cure the malady. In June, six more cases of flagrant dishonesty were reported, calling for many hours of discussion on the part of the faculty and administration. One student stated in a prologue that she wished to write a definitive piece of literary criticism without benefit of footnotes, quotations, and bibliography, and proceeded to quote without quotation marks ten pages from a prominent contemporary British critique. Another student turned in a paper which had been submitted on many previous occasions, and was surprised to be accused of plagiarism, for he was not aware of the fact that the original paper written several years previously had been extracted from an obvious source. Both students were suspended. Two others were dropped for similar offenses. Lighter sentences went to two more because circumstances indicated that despite inadvertent plagiarism there was no intent to be dishonest.

Last year the faculty accepted the fact that a period of reeducation in honesty was perhaps necessary in view of the condition that had developed. But the faculty also announce that the period of leniency is over. This year the full penalty applies.

The Community Chest

In past years fund raising drives for various charitable organizations have been conducted individually during the year. This meant that several times each year a student would be approached and asked to give to some charitable cause. This procedure resulted in much wasted time and duplicated effort by the student solicitors, and frequently in little response by the students to a particular drive.

This year a new fund raising system is to be inaugurated. On Monday student solicitors will begin to collect money for a Community Chest. Six charitable organizations, which in past years have conducted individual drives, are combined in the Community Chest. Students will only be approached once. Student leaders of the drive hope that students will take this fact into consideration when determining the size of their contributions. Those who desire to earmark funds can do so easily on the contribution envelope.

The new system, instituted by the Assemblies, appears to be a good one. All that remains is that the student body get behind the drive and send it over the $2000 goal.

News In Paragraphs

Carol V. Whitham '52 depicted the befuddled Middlebury woman's reaction to football in last week's humorous feature, "Midd Coed Experiences Good Old American Custom."

Walter H. Clark, associate professor of psychology and education, will repeat the voluntary course in Remedial Reading that was offered last spring, if there is sufficient student demand for it. The class will meet for an hour on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays beginning the latter part of November and will continue for five or six weeks. Those interested in enrolling should see the secretary at the Testing Service in Recitation Hall by Friday, November 10.

Mary S. Hench '51 will attend the Nobel Prize ceremonies in Stockholm, Sweden on December 10 at which her father, Dr. Philip S. Hench, will be awarded the Nobel prize for medicine. Miss Hench will sail from New York with her family on November 29, spend a day in Paris and go by train to Sweden. She will return to the United States on December 21.

Liquid food for thought from "The Clipsheet" of the Methodist Board of Temperance: WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, September 3, 1950. "African Drunks Fined." Ten years in jail, or a $2,500 fine is the penalty for drunken driving in Africa.

From the headquarters of the First Marine Corps Reserve District comes the announcement that high school and college students who are members of the Marine Corps Reserve will be granted a delay in call to active duty to allow them to finish the current semester.

Letter To The Editor

Because an article printed in the CAMPUS in the issue before last gave a false impression and caused some consternation among debate candidates, as well as making them wonder if I had reversed my position as stated to them when they first came out for debating, I would like to take this opportunity to correct that impression.

That article gave a list of some eight or ten men and women as having been picked for the squad, and indicated or implied that all of the other tryouts had been dropped from consideration. Those were the names of candidates I had indicated as showing up the best in the tryouts, and I did not intend to leave any impression of rejection of anyone. The settled policy regarding people who come out for debating, a policy unaltered for twenty years, is that anyone who comes out stays out as long as he or she desires, and is never cut from the squad, being used as his or her indicated ability and schedule permits.

Union Ready For Underdog Panthers

From The Ivy Tower

By Ken Nourse

I was talking with Doc Jacobs before the Tufts game a couple of weeks ago about the mean diplomatic situation between the powers of Winooski and Middlebury. He was enjoying a good pre-game cigar as he sat in the scouts section. He said that he wasn't scouting the Panthers. Since his boys were playing Arnold the following day, he was just out for some fresh air and sunshine. To make a long story short, Mr. Jacobs explained his purpose in claiming the conference championship.

"I just wanted to see what kind of a reaction I would get. Sure, I'd like to see Middlebury play us. I've been trying to get Duke to schedule us ever since I took over St. Mike's. I think it would be a natural. We could make it like the Maine Conference. (The Main Conference is composed of Bowdoin, Colby, Bates, and Maine. They playeach other every year so that a true champion can be established at the end of the season.) Then maybe we could have the two conference winners play."

Maybe I'm all wrong, but I think Doc was thinking of the money angle alone. He appeared to be less interested in the game or the conference than he was in the gate receipts. That's all well and good, but it defies the underlying principle of small college football, i.e., playing for the love of the game.

This controversy is getting to be like the chapel affair which I consider a dead issue. After this Saturday, I consider the feud over and done with. The freshmen meet the Purple Knaves from Winooski at Porter Field Saturday. Personally, I'd like to see the frosh beat the pants off Doc's beginners. It isn't probable, but it would settle a few things.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

After starting the first four games of the season, a switch in the offense put him on the bench during most of the Trinity game. He did his best as the ballhandler on the T but the criticism was mounting as to his abilities as a playcaller. And so, they took that job away from him. He is a good passer, but they took that job away from him too. Last Saturday, our unofficial records list him as having an average of around 8 yards per carry on a field of mud and water. He was a playcaller, then a passer, and now a runner. Orchids to Dick Allen...the athlete of the week.

Close Game Forecast For Schenectady Fans

By Harvey Root

This Friday the Middlebury Panthers will journey to Schenectady to engage the Union Dutchmen Saturday afternoon. This contest will mark the 21st meeting of the two elevens. In the Midd-Union series up to now, Midd has won 7 games; the Dutchmen have won 8. There have been five ties in the series.

MIDD UNDERDOG

In Saturday's encounter, the Panthers will be the underdogs, even though the two teams have the identical record of two wins, three losses, and a tie. Union has made better showings against two teams which have given Middlebury plenty of trouble. Middlebury took a 39-0 beating from St. Lawrence, while Union lost to the same team by a narrow 14-7 score. Williams outscored the Panthers four touchdowns to one in a pre-season scrimmage. Last Saturday, the Dutchmen came very close to upsetting Williams. The final score was Williams 14, Union 13. Midd has become stronger during the past two weeks with the use of the single wing, rolling up 54 points in two games.

UNION USES "WING T"

Coach Hammerstrom of Union employs the "Wing T" formation for his offense. Bob Fletcher runs the club from his quarterback position. His passing was responsible for Union's close game with Williams. His favorite target is end Ray Pomeroy, a good pass receiver. Union's veteran back, Scott Jackson, may see some action despite a broken bone in his hand. "Cookie" Sherwin, center on the Union club, is a standout backing up the line.

"THE SPOILERS"

The last two Midd-Union games were very important encounters. In '48 the Panthers were undefeated and untied when they engaged the Dutchmen at Schenectady. The Dutchmen beat the Panthers 14-7, ruining a perfect season for Middlebury. Last year the shoe was on the other foot. Union visited Porter Field with an undefeated and untied club. The twice-beaten Panthers played a great defensive and offensive game to tie Union 14-14. This ruined the Union bid for a pefect season.

Middlebury will be close to full strength for this forthcoming Union game. Jim MacTiernan, Walt Hollister, Bill Stotz, and Hank Draghi, however, may miss this contest because of injuries.

Varsity Harriers Beat Champlain Score Third Win

By Bill Marseilles

By beating Champlain College 25-33 on November 3, the Middlebury cross country team won its third consecutive home meet, and assured itself of at least an even break for the season in the won and lost column. Roger May, who finished first, covered the 4.3 mile wind blown course in the outstanding time of 23 minutes, 43.5 seconds. Captain Pete Perryman finished second, 44 seconds later. Champlain's Moralda, Zsiday and Clark took the next three places, and were followed by George Rapp in sixth place, Bill Marseilles in seventh, Joe Peck in eighth and Ed Perrin in ninth place. Ed Hickox was unable to run due to an injury sustained in the Williams meet.

In winning the run, Roger May brought his total points to 36, and second place for Pete Perryman added 9 points to his total, making it 35.

Running conditions were poor because of a strong wind blowing from the north, and considering this, May's time was exceptional. He seems almost ready to take up where Jim Newman left off.

On Saturday the runners travel to Schenectady to run against a powerful team representing Union College. In spite of two losses, the Union team has some fine runners, and will probably be at least as strong as was Williams. The freshmen are also scheduled to run the Union frosh and will go into the meet with a record of two impressive wins and no defeats.

A&P All-Stars

The following article was taken from the N. Y. TIMES of last week:

L.E. Bacon, Dartmouth
L.T. Berry, Kansas State
L.G. Coffey, Boston College
C. Ham, Hardin Simmons
R.G. Corne, Miss. Southern
R.T. HERRING, MIDDLEBURY
R.E. Lamb, Sewanee
Q.B. Rice, Hobart
H.B. Lemmons, Texas
H.B. Appell, Fordham
F.B. Sugar, Baylor

The article went on to say, "That gang is good enough to eat. With Lemmons around, it should use the Tea-formation. But could you have a Tea-formation with Coffey in the lineup? The nickname for the squad would be the sandwiches. It would have to be with Ham in the center."

Midd Trounces Norwich 32-0; Allen Stars In Conference Win

By Bill Huey

Last Saturday afternoon the Middlebury Panthers posted their second victory of the year as they downed a visiting Norwich team 32-0 before 1500 chilled fans, including the Norwich cadet corps. Scoring almost at will, the Nelsonmen tallied twice in the second frame, and three times in the third, while they effectively halted the Cadet offensive attack. It was the first Vermont Conference game of the year for Middlebury.

Highlighting the afternoon was the brilliant running of tailback Dick Allen. Although Allen did not score himself, his dazzling display of ball-carrying prowess was a valuable asset to the team's success story. He personally accounted for more than 150 yards of the team's total yardage gained on the ground.

Due to the poor weather conditions, the first quarter of play was characterized by many fumbles and sloppy ball-handling. Middlebury was unable to penetrate enemy territory throughout the first fifteen minutes, and it looked like Norwich might again surprise the favored Blue, as they did last year when they held Middlebury to a lone touchdown.

At the start of the second quarter, Middlebury began to display their powerful single wing attack. With Bert Rathburn and Wendy Forbes alternating line smashes, the Panthers moved the ball from the Norwich 40 to the 5, where Forbes went over for the first score of the afternoon. Don MacLean's extra point attempt was low, and Midd led 6-0.

The second touchdown was set up a few minutes later when Chet Nightingale cut in from his end slot to block Dick Smith's punt. Nightingale recovered the loose ball on the 27 yardline. Again it was the double barrel running attack of Rathburn and Forbes which produced the T.D., with Forbes going over from the 1 foot line. Rathburn, running through the right side of the line, recorded the extra point -- Middlebury 13, Norwich 0.

It was only a matter of minutes before the third tally was posted at the outset of the second half. Rathburn entered the scoring circle when he slanted off right guard, picked up three blockers, and raced 18 yards into paydirt. Forbes' attempt for the extra point failed. It was a flashy 38 yard run by Allen that put the ball into scoring

Bush League View

The high flying D.K.E. football team finished the season with an unbeaten slate of eight wins and no losses to cop the Intramural Football League title. The Dekes celebrated their victory at a banquet given by the D.U.'s.

A strong finish by the A.T.O.'s gave them a well deserved tie for second place with the D.U.'s. On Wednesday afternoon, the A.T.O.'s defeated the D.U. club 27-19. This was the D.U.'s second straight loss. When the A.T.O.'s won the final game of the season last Thursday 14-7 over KDR, it gave them a 6-2 record for the year, the same as the D.U.'s. KDR also lost the day before to Chi Psi 19-12. These two losses dropped the Ranchmen back into fourth place with a 5-3 record. Chi Psi wound up with an even 4-4 slate. All the other clubs were below the .500 mark.

John Luytjes defeated Dick Whittinghill in the finals of the individual tennis championships. Whittinghill reached the finals by virtue of his 6-2, 6-3 upset win over first seeded Don Axinn. Luytjes, reportedly one of the best young tennis prospects in the Netherlands, proved too much for Whittinghill in the final outcome.

The team golf championship went to KDR on the strength of their win over Chi Psi.

Freshmen Edge Catamounts 7-0; Close With St. Mike's Saturday

By Roger May

The Middlebury freshmen will play their final football game of the season Saturday at 2 p.m. when they meet the St. Michael's frosh on Porter Field. Middlebury will go into the game with a 2-1-1 record, having beaten Vermont 7-0 in their last outing.

A number of lineup changes are expected Saturday. Jerry Foss and Fred Gruman should be sufficiently recovered from their injuries to return to the line, but safety-man Bruce White will not be available. He suffered a crushed cheekbone in the Vermont game. With the single wing now being used, Marty Durkin will take over as blocking back and George Atwell will be in as spinner back. Two early season casualties, Rem Burbank and Harry Myers, are due to see a good deal of action in the final game.

Marty Durkin scored the lone touchdown of the game as the frosh blanked Vermont 7-0 Friday. Bruce White set up the fourth period score by running back a Vermont punt 30 yards to the Catamounts' 20. Three plays later Durkin plowed over from the 1 yard line and Shep Huntley converted. Another Middlebury drive was halted on the 12 shortly before the half, and just before the end of the game, the Panthers stopped U.V.M. on the Middlebury 15.

position, preceding Rathburn's tally.

Norwich immediately lost possession of the ball following the kickoff due to a bad center on the fourth down. Dick Worthington, on his third ball-carrying attempt of the afternoon, then scored from the twelve on a neat dash through the left side of the Norwich line. Bob Stalker, on a naked reverse, added the extra point to bring the score to Midd 26, Norwich 0.

Worthington closed the scoring of the day late in the third quarter when he cut through left tackle on the 35 and outraced the secondary to the end zone. Allen's pass for the point was low, and the final score stood 32-0.

Pranksters Burn Midnight Oil

On Halloween night a smudge pot was obtained by Halloween pranksters from the sidewalk construction in front of Forest West and was placed in a pew on the women's side of chapel.

The next morning, one of the first arrivals in chapel was so disturbed by the sight of the brightly burning lamp that she put it on the men's side where it burned throughout the program.

A daily notice of that morning stated: "Chapel Warming Committee meeting today at 4:30 in North Lounge of Student Union Building...Bring Kerosene." No one attended the meeting.

The results of the Halloween pranks: a change in the procedure of submitting daily notices and the removal of the smudge pots from in front of Forest.
